Walking Transitions
Walking on historical ways of pilgrimage as a new method of social work aims, to leave the trodden paths in the work with young people. Leaving the speech-based trainings and counseling in doors in the social and natural environment can be a first step to reflection and personal development.

Projects have been developed in some European countries, since several years, in which the traditional idea of pilgrimage is used in a modern way of social work. They take people on the way, who are in desperate situations, without work, in poorness or offended to prison.

The project “Between Ages: Network for young offenders and NEET” (Erasmus+) with partners in Belgium, France, Italy and Germany is collecting these experiences and doing research on theoretical background. On a second international conference in Sala Del Carroccio, Piazza del Campidoglio, Rome results of this project will be presented and discussed.

The conference invites all, who will start new ways with offenders and NEET’s, aiming to reach a better future.

There is no fee for participation.
